My co-writer for this magazine is Michael Jacob Delos Santos. He loves to draw animals, people, backgrounds, buildings, and robots. His favorite games are Roblox, Minecraft, and an AI version of Dungeons and Dragons. He also likes to make games and listen to LoFi music. He watches cooking videos and parkour videos, and finally he likes to sleep because honestly why not? His interests had garnered over the years all thanks to his experiences with his friends and family.

When he was 10, he went to the beach with his friends and stayed there for three days. They all relaxed, played board games and sang Christian songs and praised God. Then, when he was 11, he stayed in Cebu with his family to live with his grandmother, the house she lived in look western, with a porch and white walls and a fancy staircase. Next was in Baguio City, where he went to Camp John Hay in the weekends to hang out with his friends, they played tabletop games on the first night and on the 2nd day, they went zip lining. When he was 15, he introduced his friends the experience of entering a convention by attending the Furry Pinas Convention. Finally, when he was 16, he went to Taiwan to meet new people, enjoy the food there, and experience different types of cultures.
